FRIDAY, JANUARY 27, 1905.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

3,260

As the Montpelier Journal suggests, the stonecutters in Montpelier might profitably take up the question of tuberculosis with their Barre brethren.

The public schools of Montpelier cost $23,250 last year. The public schools of Barre cost $29,079.84, and Barre has about twice the number of pupils. It is worth noting, too, that Montpelier has asked for $24,950 for the coming year.

The Franklin, N. H., Journal-Transcript thus comments: "Barre, Vt., is to have a tax rate of $2.59. That is what comes of a city having everything it wants. Public spirited citizens enjoy doing work for their city or town without remuneration, and it is bad for a place when its prominent citizens feel that they must have money compensation for every act of service rendered."

AN UNEXPECTED ENDING.

Coming at the climax of a most sensational trial, the conviction of Charles L. Tucker for the murder in the first degree of Mabel A. Page of Weston, Mass., was a most startling denouement. Although a jury of twelve men, supposedly of the average intelligence and circumspection, have declared that Tucker's hand held the knife which struck the newspaper reports of the trial. Particularly enough, the consensus of opinion both among those near at hand and those far away was that the prisoner was not guilty of the crime charged against him and for which he is now condemned to death. But it must be admitted that the twelve men who composed the jury were better qualified to judge, as the whole case was mapped out for them and they lived in the atmosphere of it for three weeks, while the conduct of the trial was such as to permit them to give a calm consideration of the facts. There was no hysteria in the trial, either for or against the prisoner. Whether Tucker gains the privilege of a new trial through the finding of new evidence is not settled at the present time.

To give him the benefit of the doubt which exists in many minds most people would like to have the case tried over, although it must be said that the trial has been of a demoralizing nature. We quite agree with the Boston Transcript, which says: "Such trials are socially demoralizing. They develop morbid tastes. They are unsettling to weak or extremely sensitive minds. The suicide of one person has been charged to a steady reading of the evidence and statements of incidents in this trial, and the extent of its unbalancing influence upon other minds can never be measured. Still such trials must be held whenever shocking deeds are perpetrated, and there is reasonable ground for belief that the persons responsible for them are in custody. They are the penalties that society must pay for the prevalence of lawless violence in its midst."

To Be Labor Candidate Again.

Rutland, Jan. 27.—At a mass meeting of the independent labor party held at Woodlin's Hall last night the committee which was appointed to wait on Mayor J. S. Carder, reported that the mayor has consented to allow his name to be used in the party's public caucuses for renomination. The matter of renominating Mr. Carder was freely discussed, and all present agreed to be much in favor of such a move. The date for the caucus has not been set.

Third Annual White Sale

Of "PEERLESS" Muslin Underwear
For the Ladies and Children!

LOT 1
9 CTS

You cannot afford to waste time making such garments. They are worth much more than the price we ask.

LOT 2
19 CTS

LOT 3
25 CTS

Truly wonderful for so little money. Take as many garments in this assortment as you wish, except gloves—only one to a customer.

LOT 4
39 CTS

39 cents seems insignificant for such garments. They are exclusive in design and costly in appearance, while the low price is possible only at this sale.

LOT 5
49 CTS

Ordinarily there would be no profit selling good underwear at this price, but it's the manufacturer's loss and you receive all the benefits.

LOT 6
75 CTS

You will appreciate these reasonable bargains more fully when you see this assortment. Only at this sale can you get such good values.

LOT 7
98 CTS

People who have any doubt about the great bargains in this assortment need only see the remarkable showing. The prices are truly phenomenal.

Did you ever attend any of our Special Underwear Sales? If not, you had better come and see how much you can buy at this sale for so little money. It's a well-known fact that our Underwear is different from that sold in other stores. In style, quality and workmanship it is unexcelled. Every garment perfect and worth regular price, but the price you pay hardly covers cost of material. Entire second floor given up for this display. Come early and get first choice.

THIS SALE BEGINS AT 9 A. M. SATURDAY, JANUARY 28.

A DESPERATE BATTLE.

New York Firemen Fought a Bad Blaze Near East River Water Front.

New York, Jan. 27.—Fire which started in a nest of wooden buildings in South street near the East river water front, yesterday afternoon, gave the firemen a desperate two hours' battle and threatened to destroy a large amount of property. Among the buildings which for a time were in great danger was an immense bonded warehouse in which many hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of valuable property was stored. The warehouse was saved, however, and the flames were finally subdued after four buildings had been badly damaged, resulting in a loss of $100,000.

The fire was a most spectacular one and the firemen had to brave the danger of explosion in addition to the severe cold, as a large quantity of oil in casks and cases was stored in the Borne, Scrymger building, where the fire started.

The big battery of steamers called out by three alarms, was reinforced by several fire boats, and the fire was practically drowned out before it had a chance to reach the long lines of low frame structures on the nearby piers.

From the Borne, Scrymger building, where the fire started, the flames spread to a big building occupied by the Newhall Ship Chandlery company, and thence to the Mallory Steamship Line store house, and the "Trisco," a water front hotel.

Several other buildings caught fire, but the flames were extinguished with little damage. All of the four buildings named, however, were badly burned. While the fire was at its height the Mallory Line steamship Rio Grande, which was lying at a nearby pier, was believed to be in danger, and she was run out into the stream.

A Modern Institution!

Its Powers! Its Advantages!

The Trust Company is a modern institution. It came into existence to meet the needs and conditions of the modern business world. Trust Companies were unknown a hundred years ago. Today they extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific, handling each year a constantly increasing volume of business promptly, accurately, satisfactorily.

The Trust Company has wide powers. It is at once a Commercial Bank and a Savings Bank. It may be more than these, for it may act as Executor or Trustee of Estates, as Assignee, Receiver or Guardian in the same manner and subject to the same control by the Court as in the case of an individual. The GRANITE SAVINGS BANK AND TRUST COMPANY has been duly empowered to handle this class of business, and offers its services to the community at large.

Changing Conditions.

Conditions have changed in a hundred years. A century ago a man wishing to provide for the welfare of his family in the event of his death must, of necessity, name an individual to carry out his wishes. Some people do it that way now. It isn't the best way, however, and the trend is ever toward the Trust Company with its paid-up capital, its surplus and its staff of capable officials trained in the science of accounts, experienced in business, used to the handling of large interests and with knowledge as to the safe investment of trust funds. The individual has his personal interests—things of first importance, to which the handling of trusts or the settlement of estates must ever be a secondary matter. The Trust Company handles trusts and settles estates as a part of its day's work—they are matters of FIRST IMPORTANCE.

The Progress of a Century.

A hundred years ago our ancestors rode in the stage-coach or on horseback. We of a later day find the railroad all too slow to carry us to our destination. Our grandparents got along very nicely with the tallow candle. We demand the electric light. In the days of Paul Revere information was communicated by means of the beacon signal. Today telephone, the telegraph and "wireless" bring to us almost instantly news of the civilized world. It is simply a matter of progress, of improvement.

A hundred years ago the power to act as Executor, Trustee or Guardian was delegated to the individual. Today the Trust Company is assuming these duties and, as a writer of financial text-books has well said, "THE TRUST COMPANY IS AS FAR IN ADVANCE OF THE OLD-TIME TRUSTEE AS THE MODERN MACHINE IS AHEAD OF HAND LABOR."

The Trust Company makes a BUSINESS of this class of work, the individual does it only incidentally, giving to it such odds and ends of his time as are not required for anything else.

Which is the better, the careful, systematic service of the well-managed Trust Company, or the kind of service so often given by the individual, who may be—but often is not—qualified to satisfactorily fulfill his trust?
